

Chronos and Kairos

from time passing to meaningful moments

There is never a time or place for true love. It happens accidentally, in a heartbeat, in a single flashing, throbbing moment.

Sarah Dessen

What a slut time is.
She screws everybody.
John Green, The Fault in Our Stars

All we have to decide is what to do with the time that is given us.
Tolkien, The Fellowship of the Ring

Kairos

What moments in your life have been timeless, meaningful and have sustained you through the passage of time?

How did those moments make you feel?

Is there a pattern or theme to these moments?

How can you find or make more of these moments in your life?
